

A Snail Discovery

September 15th 2017

"I am gonna give one of these to the snail." –Eleanor, as she collects acorns to feed the snail

On this morning, Eleanor brought to my attention the delicate appearance of a snail in a bowl of rose petals in our outdoor "living things" array. We decided to take the snail for a visit to our observation table to utilize the lights and magnifying glasses to take a closer look. Wren joined in the observation and studied the snail as Eleanor held it gently on the petal.

*"He leaves slime on the petal!"
–Wren*

*"Where are his eyes?"
–Wren (points to antennae)*
