

Moon-like materials set up as provocation for our day.

2/8/16 Preston's Birthday Celebration

The hummingbirds spent the day celebrating with a wild dance party! We listened to loud music and danced to the magical party light glistening across the span of the room. We also played with our moon materials. Lola and Preston used music sticks to make little drums out of the moons in our room. Preston seemed to know the day's celebrations were for him: he was the life of the party, at one point even climbing into a shelf to chill out to the cool tunes. When it was time for Preston to blow out his birthday candle, everyone excitedly crowded around.
