

Helena shows off some newly dug up treasures.

Lila finds another piece of treasure!

Hank washes some blue glass.

Lila shows Helena what she's found

Thursday, October 8, 2015

While playing on the playground in the morning, a few of the children found one of the glass beads we keep in the classroom buried in the mulch. They decided it was a buried treasure, and began sifting through the sandbox to try to find more.

They seemed to be enjoying their game so much that we decided to create another opportunity to dig for treasure after snack!

Hank, Helena, and Lila especially enjoyed sifting through the sand to find the colorful glass hidden underneath. They filled up a bowl with water to wash off the sand, and set the beads on the bright white lid of the container to dry in the sun.

Hank, Helena, and Lila digging, washing, and drying treasure