

Water Pouring Exploration

14 September 2016

A wooden table was situated in the sunlight and four small glass pitchers of water and various-sized empty glass jars were placed on top. Jonah, Huck, Josie, and Landyn were invited to come out and pour water from one receptacle to another. Landyn poured all of the water from her pitcher into one jar until it was overflowing out onto the table and then onto her shoes. Jonah poured much of his pitcher water into a tall jar and then proceeded to pour that jar's water into smaller jars. He then took a refreshing drink. Huck took note and sipped some water from his jar as well. He was intrigued when he dipped the bottom of an oblong jar into another jar filled with water. At first, Josie poured water using two hands but soon felt confident to use only one hand. She also liked watching the water disappear into the mulch.
