

In the Toddler Room January 23, 2012

This morning many of the babies were able to spend some time in the toddler room. There was a lot to see! Nate and James played in the window room reading books playing with cars and just watching the busy toddlers. When Zac woke up he was able to watch Nathaniel, Louise, and Theo (Henry was also part of this experience but chose to explore other things as well) watch small tablets grow into spongy dinosaurs. The group also compared the color of their dinosaurs with the same colored block.

