

Revisiting Light and Shadow

October 3rd, 2023

Yellow Roomers Jack, Billie, Saul, Owen, and Waits were invited to explore light and shadow by means of an overhead projector. The group has had a few previous experiences with the material, with this particular session being Waits first introduction. The projector was placed on the floor in reach of the group and loose materials from our classroom were used to cast shadows on a nearby wall.

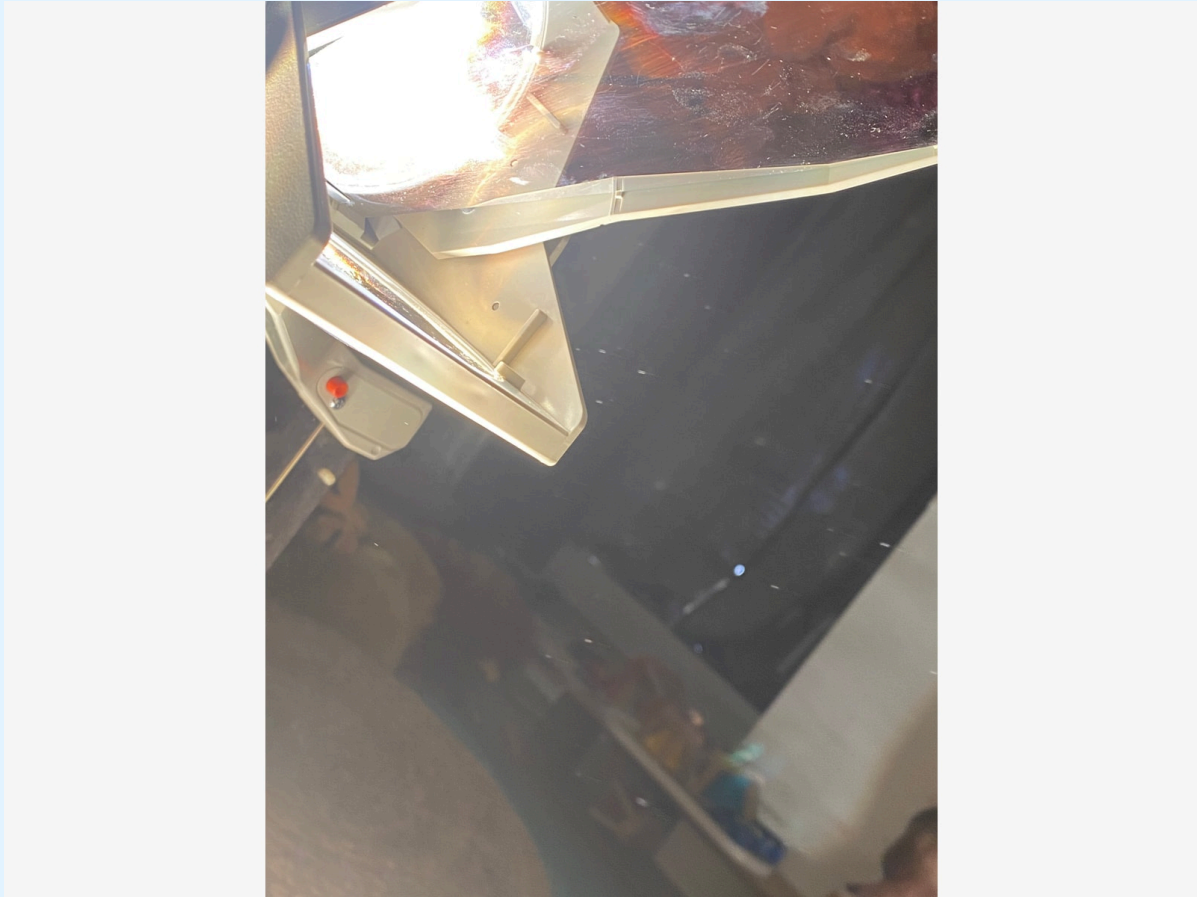

The group seemed very curious about the projector. Saul, Billie, and Jack crawled up to the base and began touching the materials and hitting the surface. Waits is a little hesitant but, observes while sitting with Melo.

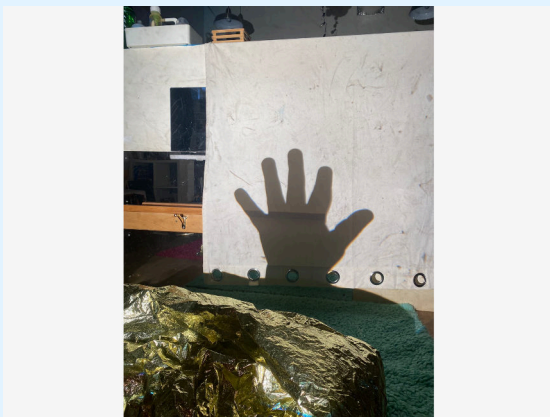

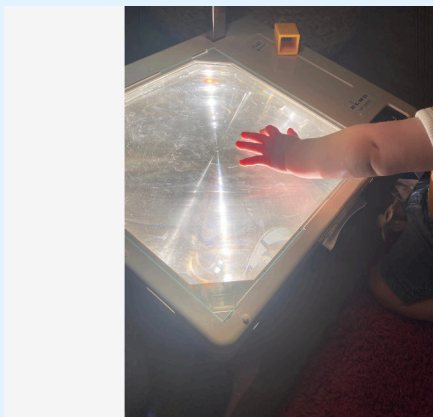

The shadows being casted on the wall seem to catch Saul's attention. He crawls toward them to get a closer look. Owen who is holding the material that is visible on the wall, watches closely as he moves it back and forth.

During the experience Jack and Billie make an impromptu addition of large shiny paper. Owen and Melo explore making sounds on the projector by tapping the base. Saul watches and tries to touch the shadows on the floor.

Billie notices small particles which are illuminated by the light from the projector.
Billie reaches out and tries to grab them.

Jack places his hand on the base which becomes visible behind him.

Owen explores further by climbing onto the projector.
