

Clay on the Deck
December 14, 2011

Another beautiful “spring” day in December! We spent most of the morning on the deck working with a big slab of clay. Henry and James poked and pinched at the clay over and over. James spent the most time with the clay. At one point he raised his arms up excitedly and hit the clay over and over.

