

May 4, 2012.

Today was cloudy so it was a good day to play with light in the classroom. Teresa brought some colored rope lights from her house and several of the children were fascinated by them – especially Nate and Darcy. Not only did they enjoy interacting with them, they also seemed to enjoy watching one another.