

Johnny's 3rd Birthday:
A Robot Celebration
1 December 2017

Johnny turns three years old tomorrow and we celebrated robot-style at school today. The children presented Johnny with a robot they made for him. It had all sorts of interesting bits glued to it. Several children came to school in robot t-shirts, and we looked at a book about robots that live in space such as satellites and moon rovers. The children pretended to be robots in various ways such as putting buckets on their heads and clear cylinders on their arms. Johnny's family gave us masks to make at school which the children adored. At lunch, we sang to Johnny and he blew out his birthday candle.

Happy 3rd birthday, Johnny!
