

Nora and Lila in the Studio 1-24-16

On Wednesday morning with most of the Blue Jays visiting another classroom, Nora had some time to explore the older student's space. She spent some time banging magnets and dumping blocks with a few other babies, who quickly found their ways back to the Canary Room, while Nora found Lila painting in the studio. She was immediately fascinated! She stopped about 2 feet away and watched, enraptured, for about 5 minutes. Ginny gave her a paintbrush to hold and play with, and she continued to stand and watch Lila, feeling the brush with her fingers and occasionally her mouth! When Lila was finished painting, Nora approached the painting station. She felt the watercolor palette with her fingers, and began to touch Lila's art notebook. Since Lila was not too happy to share her special book, Ginny got Nora one of her own. Without any prompting, Nora dipped her fingers into the paint and created her own piece of artwork!
