

The Playground January 24, 2012

The playground can be a tricky place for little people who have just learned to walk or are still learning to stand on their own. Not only is it hilly, but it's covered with wood chips that make it hard to balance. Luckily we have plenty of push toys, logs, and tires for the children to use to help them get back up and walk around.

Henry and James are old hats at being with the toddlers on the playground. Henry spent a lot of time in the sandbox while James played "peek-a-boo" with Alivia Sage.

Even Adele got to come out to the playground today. She watched all the action on the playground. Quincy came up to her to talk to Adele saying, "Who's that?"

