Open-Ended Exploration with Light

Today we discovered the colorful, swirling "disco" light in our classroom! We honestly weren't sure how it arrived here, & therefore had no intention connected to it, but as Rachel recently began some small group studies of light it was opportune timing. Kalei left it on the very accessible location of the risers & sat a few feet away from it. Ruby was drawn to it first, enjoying the ability to manipulate it throughout the space. She especially enjoyed shining it onto her face & that of Wren & baby brother Shea, Preston, Ruth, Margaret, Lucas, & Noble who clustered around the lights with Ruby. We wonder what will be discovered as the disco light remains accessible in the room...
