Today in the studio, Paisley, Theo, Quincy, Henry, and Peter worked with red, blue, yellow, and green playdough. Children were provided with assorted tools to use with the playdough, such as spoons, knives, different sized bowls, and sticks. All the children created food with the colorful playdough today, breaking the dough up into very small pieces and putting it in bowls, stirring the food, and pouring it into a different bowl. Paisley offered Trisha a spoonful of food, blowing on it first, as it was very hot! From cakes to soup, playdough provides fun and imagination for children and the children's work today was no exception. When lunch was ready, the group did a great job working together to clean the studio by picking up the dough, sweeping the floor, and putting the tools away.
