

Using the Projector as an Opportunity to Explore the World Through Light

< Lucas seemed quite interested in the projected scenes. He frequently stood on an ottoman, leaning against the wall. Although sometimes he was simply observing up close he began to engage more actively upon seeing a flock of flamingos, flapping his arms in delight.

"Sticky!" Reece said of a snake. He stood up on the risers jumping & remarking on the scenes for the better part of half an hour before discovering a lace cloth nearby. He decided to hold it up against the wall consequently realizing the potential to make a pattern! >

Aleita burst out with joy when a herd of elephants projected onto the wall:
"Elephants are my favorite!"

"I want some of those! I want some of those! I like those!" Huck said excitedly of a series of interesting birds.

Ruth observed for awhile then became a commentator: "I've seen that spider before! Oh, it's a komodo dragon!" Later she danced around the rug, watching her shadow intently while doing "ballet." >
