

The Studio 3.26.12

Today children from the infant room explored the studio. James discovered the chalk and board. He brought the chalk to Trisha and said, "purple, purple". Henry spent some time examining the sticks with ridges and without.

Darcy seemed to enjoy playing with the shells and rocks. Trisha observed her taking the shells and putting them through the grid of the shelf. After she put them through she tried to stick her hand in the grids. She quickly discovered that the better way was to put the shells up through the grid with one hand and grab the shell with the other.

James encourages his friends to explore with him.

